MAN HELD OVER PARK STABBING

POLICE have arrested a 39-year-old man in connection with a stabbing in South Tottenham park.

The victim, a 24-year-old Polish man, was found suffering from a stab wound in Markfield Park, off Crowland Road, on the evening of Saturday, June 21.

He was taken by ambulance to an east London hospital and treated for superficial injuries. He has been discharged.

Officers were called to the park at about 9.15pm following reports of a disturbance at a private music festival being attended by around 150 people, including children.

Police said that a disturbance took place following the arrival of a group of about 20 people, mainly men and eastern European.

Film posted on the internet shows fireworks, flares and bottles being thrown, with revellers saying that they were the subject of unprovoked attacks.

Shortly afterwards, the Polish man was found suffering from a stab wound.

The 39-year-old, who was arrested on suspicion of grievous bodily harm last Wednesday, has been bailed until a date later this month.

Police have stressed that their inquiries so far show that the arrested man is not linked to any of the groups involved in the disturbance and there is nothing to suggest that the stabbing was motivated by race or nationality.

Haringey CID are continuing to investigate the disturbance in the park, although police say they are not currently looking for anyone else in connection with the stabbing.

Anyone with information about the trouble should call Haringey CID on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

A week after the disturbance, a Unity Festival was organised in Markfield Park by anti-fascist groups and trade unions.

The brainchild of Unite Against Fascism, it drew large crowds to the park – as well as a heavy police presence. Those who turned up listened to music and speeches before many took to the streets for a peaceful protest march.

Police seek quintet

OFFICERS from Haringey Wanted Offender Unit have issued photos of five people they are trying to trace.

They are, pictured clockwise, from left, Garvey Gordon, 21, wanted in connection with a burglary in Maidstone Road, Bounds Green, on August 20, 2013; Pawel Poplawski, 30, sought in connection with a burglary in Poynton Road, Tottenham, on May 28, 2014; convicted burglar Dan Balan, 55, recalled to prison on October 3, 2013, for breaching his licence conditions; and Charlie Francis Snowball and Mihail Asenov, 42, both of whom failed to appear at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on burglary charges.

Anyone who can help should call the unit on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111, quoting the number on the photo.

Grandad prepares for West Bank mission

A GRANDFATHER from Haringey is gearing up for a three-month assignment as a human rights monitor in the West Bank.

Peter Buckley, a retired engineer and risk assessor, will be based in the Palestinian Territory occupied by Israel.

He will be part of a team working alongside Palestinian and Israeli peace groups reporting violations of human rights.

Mr Buckley will be in the region as part of the Ecumenical Accompaniment Programme in Palestine and Israel.

Despite the potential risks involved, Mr Buckley said that he was unfazed by what his assignment could throw up.

He said: 'The news media focus on major violent incidents which generally are few and far between. We are there to witness the daily harassments and institutionalised human rights violations of the Palestinian people. That is the reality. I'm trained to assess risks and I will see the risks of everyday life under occupation.'

Enter Haringey in Bloom

ENTRIES are now open for this year's Haringey in Bloom competition.

There are a number of different categories for individuals, businesses and community groups. Entries close on July 28 and for details and to enter, visit haringey.gov.uk

Beware travel disruption

TRANSPORT for London has warned people to expect travel disruption at the close of each night of the Wireless Festival, taking place from Friday to Sunday.

Campaigners fear for Chase Farm's future

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

SAVE Chase Farm campaigners have expressed deep reservations about promises made about the future of the hospital by Royal Free executives.

Following yesterday's takeover, concerns were raised as the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, which now manages the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, as well as Barnet Hospital, plans to sell part of the Chase Farm site to raise funds for capital investment.

Campaigner Kieran McGregor said: "Despite assurances from the trust, the risk with the land sales is that funds could be diverted away from Enfield which would be contrary to promises that have been made. Before the 2010 general election we were told that Chase Farm would not be downgraded before improvements to primary care services were made – and those promises have not been fulfilled.

"Promises have been made by managers and as those managers left, those who took over ignored those promises. We are now once again faced with a new management and we just don't have much trust in what health chiefs tell us any more."

The Hampstead-based Royal Free has made repeated assurances that revenue from land sales, expected to be between £30million and £50m, will be retained to modernise facilities on the Chase Farm site as part of a £100m capital investment programme for the hospital.

But veteran campaigner Ivy Beard criticised the lack of consultation about the Royal Free's acquisition and described Chase Farm as the "sacrificial lamb" to a bigger hospital.

"Did we have a say in this takeover?" she added. "No. Chase Farm is the sacrificial lamb again."

"This takeover is more aligned to Barnet and Edgware patients, than Enfield or Brixton patients, who will be disadvantaged with the major services already withdrawn."

"The Royal Free is not looking for extra responsibility, just the revenue it can gain by the sell-off of Chase Farm land and the long-term future needs of this area of north London and south Hertfordshire neglected."

Enfield North MP Nick de Bois was

Lack of trust: Kieran McGregor

more positive about the acquisition, but added: "We have had assurances, but we don't necessarily trust those until they deliver."

New bosses forecast marked improvement in finances

THE deficit incurred by the beleaguered Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust is set to disappear following the takeover by the Royal Free, executives have said.

The forecast deficit for Barnet and Chase Farm as a standalone organisation was £32.5million in 2014/15, due to a loss of income, capital investments and improved staffing levels at Barnet Hospital.

The former trust ran a healthy surplus of £5m in 2009/10, but has been plunged into deficit since, also partly due to the costly maintenance of the run-down facilities at Chase Farm.

But the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, which took over Barnet and Chase Farm this week, has said that as a result of government transition funding it is expecting a surplus this year.

The trust is set to receive £263m from the Department of Health and a number of north London clinical commissioning groups over the next five years.

Chase Farm will see around £100m in capital investment in coming years, between £30m and £50m of which is expected to be raised through the sale of land at The Ridgeway site in Enfield. The Royal Free will see £170m in capital investment.

Chief executive of the merged hospital trust David Sloman said: "Thanks to the excellence that exists in both trusts and economies of scale, the new organisation will be much more resilient clinically and financially."

A spokeswoman added: "Like all NHS trusts, there is a need for us to manage costs effectively in the coming years and there is a robust plan in place to ensure financial targets can be met."

"Part of that includes the plan to redevelop Chase Farm, so that it is brought up to date and can be run more efficiently."

Hunt for 'builder' after pensioner is conned out of £500

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN elderly man who suffers from debilitating arthritis has spoken of his experience of being conned into handing over £500 to a thief who preyed on his vulnerability.

Kyriacos Taliotis, of New Southgate, was leaving Hazelwood Dentist surgery in Hazelwood Lane, Palmers Green, between 1pm and 2pm on Thursday, June 17, when he was approached by a Greek-speaking man.

"He said, 'I see you coming and going and I see how disabled you are – I want to help you'. I accepted because a lot of people help me out," Mr Taliotis told the Advertiser.

While pretending to help him to his car, the man told him he was a builder and that he had carried out a lot of work on the surgery building.

Mr Taliotis mentioned that he needed a little work done on his roof.

Immediately, the supposed builder leapt at the chance to do the work – but demanded a deposit up front before he would even look at the roof.

The man did not leave the grandfather-of-two's side and got into his car.

Mr Taliotis drove with the conman to the N a t West bank branch in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, where the "builder" accompanied the pensioner as he withdrew £300.

Because of severe rheumatoid arthritis, the 84-year-old has difficulty gripping objects – so in a fake show of kindness the man offered to help by taking the envelope with withdrawal and saying he would take only £130 as a deposit.

However, Mr Taliotis later discovered that the man had taken all the cash and put an empty envelope back into his shopping trolley.

After the two men were meant to have parted ways, Mr Taliotis was in fact followed to the Sirwan Supermarket in Green Lanes.

"I saw him in the shop and he told me I had to give him £200 right away for materials," he recalled.

The man then helped Mr Taliotis to take out his wallet and pretended to take just a small amount of money – but took another £200 – before putting the wallet back into the elderly man's pocket completely empty. The builder promised he would be in touch later that day.

However, when Mr Taliotis heard nothing he rang the number of the man, who called himself Marios.

"But there was no one there called Marios and then I discovered my wallet was empty and I found the empty envelope," he said.

"I realised it was all lies. He managed to persuade me to believe that he was the real thing."

The conman is described as about 5ft 7ins tall, of medium build and with a Mediterranean complexion. He was wearing a long-sleeved top, an open-necked shirt, smart trousers and a hat with a brim.

Acting Detective Sergeant Laura Pond, from Enfield CID, confirmed officers were appealing for witnesses. "If you have any information, please call 101," she said. "Alternatively, you can contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 or visit www.crimestoppers-uk.org"

Mum's the word as baby girl is born in children's library

EXPERTS say that the younger children develop a passion for reading the better – but one tiny tot could not even wait until she could hold a book to get into a library's children's department.

Librarians, more used to dealing with births described between the pages of a book than in flesh and blood, did not have time to so much as consult the Encyclopaedia Britannica about how to deliver a baby when Maria Nieves Ruano-Anteque went into labour in the foyer of Edmonton Green library in the South Mall of Edmonton Green shopping centre at just after 8am on Monday morning.

Customer services officer Emine Mustafa, herself a mum-of-two, said that she was just setting up the library for the day ahead when one of her colleagues burst in to tell her a woman was in labour in the foyer.

"My colleague at Enfield Homes, Dawn Jacobs-Lowe, had first seen the woman in distress and had brought her into the foyer, where they called for an ambulance," she said.

"When I came on the scene, I saw four little children, aged between six and one, and whisked them off to the children's library and took out the books and toys to take their mind off things."

"But then suddenly paramedics rushed in and said they needed the space. So I brought the children round to the other side of the shelves – they became really engrossed in the books and didn't seem too upset at what was going on."

Ms Mustafa told the Advertiser that the library used to run a competition for the youngest member and some dads would sign their kids up in the hours after their partners had given birth.

"This definitely would have beaten all records," she said, "but I think mum had a few other things on her mind in the seconds after giving birth." She said it was particularly fitting that the baby girl had been born in the children's section.

New arrival: Maria Nieves Ruano-Anteque and with daughter Bryanna Saka-Ruano

"Hopefully, this means that she will grow up into a real little bookworm," she added. "Her mum is a regular, so we will definitely be keeping an eye out for her."

After the birth, paramedics took Maria and baby Bryanna Saka-Ruano, who weighed eight pounds eight ounces, to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, at 9.10am. They were discharged early on Tuesday.

Maria thanked the passers-by who helped her manage the unconventional birth and said: "I am going to go back to the library soon to see all the staff and to get some new books."

"I will always remember that when my daughter was born I could hear a crowd of people clapping and saying, 'Well done', as she cried for the first time."

Setback for new free school scheme as funding bid fails

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

PARENTS campaigning for "local schools for local children" are dismayed that a bid to set up a new free school on Enfield's border with Barnet has failed.

Gonul Daniels, chairwoman of the South West Enfield Action Team, told the Advertiser that the community in the area was "hugely disappointed" by the decision of the Department for Education to reject Ashmole Academy's bid to build a free school on its current secondary site, in Cecil Road, Southgate.

The academy had applied for funding to set up the school, but last week it was announced on Ashmole's website that the bid had been unsuccessful.

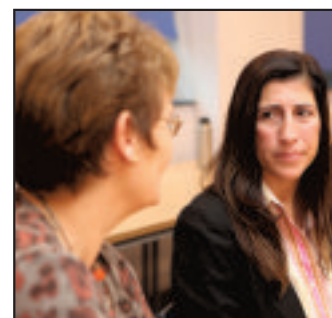

"We are hugely disappointed," said Mrs Daniels. "It is so unexpected. At this stage we don't know why the bid wasn't successful, but I am hoping they will press on and try again."

The council has acknowledged a need for more primary places in the wake of a recent population boom and last week the cabinet member for education Ayfer Orhan announced plans to expand Bowes Primary School, in Bowes Road,

New Southgate. The school will set up a new reception class, ready for September, in temporary facilities at Broomfield School, in Wilmer Way, Southgate before moving to a permanent home later in the year.

Although Mrs Daniels welcomed the announcement, she stressed that boosting places near the already expanded Garfield Primary School, in Springfield Road, New Southgate, would not help families in Southgate and Palmers Green.

"Expanding Bowes Primary is not serving the community that is in really desperate need," she said. "In this area, there are a number of sites that would suit an expansion or new campus – for example, the Minchenden site in Southgate and on the prospective site in Grovelands Park."

'Disappointed': Gonul Daniels, right, with Ashmole Academy governor Wendy Boast

However, Mrs Orhan insisted that the plans meant there would soon be "permanent provision in the south west of the borough."

"The new provision is part of the council's ongoing strategy and long-term plans to ensure every child in the borough is able to access a school place," she said.

Ponders End redevelopment is cut back

POLITICIANS have lamented the reduced size of a regeneration project that was set to transform a swathe of the east of the borough.

At a meeting in the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, on Wednesday last week, Enfield Council's cabinet signed off the reduced scale of a scheme that has been dubbed the Ponders End Electric Quarter.

Originally, the area to be transformed by housing, shopping and leisure facilities was set to encompass the entirety of the former Middlesex University campus, off Queensway, Ponders End.

The redevelopment site was originally designed to be bounded to the east by Ponders End High Street and to the west by Kingsway – taking in the whole of the former campus, which the university vacated in 2008.

However, the council was forced to change the plans after the government bought part of the former campus for the Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust, who will build Heron Hall Academy on the site – the first secondary school of the CHAT empire.

Now the Electric Quarter will be concentrated in the area immediately off Ponders End High Street and will only extend back along Queensway for a short distance.

Leader of the council Doug Taylor told cabinet members to approve the revised plans. "We would have preferred to have had a larger footprint on this site," he said. "However, we were thwarted by people with deeper pockets."

Boris reveals plans for 11 free schools

In the classroom: Mayor of London Boris Johnson and headteacher Matthew Laban at Kingfisher Hall Free School last week

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

MAYOR of London Boris Johnson visited Enfield last week to announce plans to free up public land for 11 new schools across the capital.

At the official opening of Kingfisher Hall Primary Free School, in The Ride, Ponders End, on Thursday, Mr Johnson told Year 1 pupils that the new schools are planned on sites including former police stations and Greater London Authority-owned land in the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, in east London, in order to ease pressure on local authorities.

Enfield Council, among others, has come under pressure to provide local school places for local children after the coalition government banned local authorities from creating new schools.

That has left London to rely on free schools, which can be set up independently of local education authorities by charities or groups of parents and tutors, and do not have to adhere to the national curriculum or hire formally trained teachers, to fill the gap.

Kingfisher Hall used the morning with the mayor to showcase its alternative to the national curriculum, branded a "core knowledge curriculum", which is taken from the US.

Mr Johnson took part in a lesson based on learning facts and said: "I think it's very important to have a core knowledge approach because there was a long period in education where we thought that teaching meant asking kids to imagine what it was like being a Roman legionary."

"That's good as far as it goes, but it means that sometimes children leave school without really having that bedrock of shared knowledge which everybody is entitled to."

Headteacher Matthew Laban, a former Conservative councillor, insisted that core knowledge would not prove a disadvantage for pupils who go on to be in competition with those taught under the national curriculum.

He said: "It will purely advantage them because that's what children at private school have been learning for decades."

"It's about us trying to give children from Ponders End and Enfield Highway the same chance in life as someone who went to Eton or Harrow."

The school is run by the Cuckoo Hall Academies Trust – the organisation that runs Cuckoo Hall Primary School, in Cuckoo Hall Lane, Edmonton, a school that was lauded by Education Secretary Michael Gove for its outstanding academic achievements.

However, when results for the school were announced at the end of 2013, the number of pupils achieving a level 4 in the Year 6 SATs exams had dropped from 86 to 54 per cent – below the target of 60 per cent set by Mr Gove.

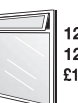

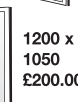

But Mr Johnson said: "As far as I know these schools are outstanding, the record of success overall is very high indeed and I think that obviously across a huge number of schools you will see a huge amount of fluctuation."

New School Places in Southgate Green

The need for more primary school places in the Southgate Green area is to be met by Bowes Primary School.

Bowes Primary School is rated outstanding by Ofsted and will be providing an additional reception class for September 2014. Bowes Southgate Green Primary School will be hosted at new temporary facilities at Broomfield School in Wilmer Way before moving to a permanent home.

Enfield Council closely monitors demand for school places and recent population projections, alongside the school admissions process, has identified that an additional reception class is needed in the area this September. The Council has also been listening to calls from local parents for more primary school places.

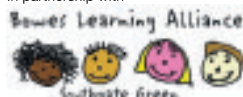

Cllr Orhan, Cabinet Member for Education, Children's Services and Protection explained that 'The new provision is part of the Council's ongoing strategy to ensure every child in the borough is able to access a school place. Enfield's School Expansion Programme has already delivered primary places in new facilities in other parts of the borough and the next phase includes plans for permanent provision in the Southgate Green area'.

Sarah Turner, Executive Headteacher of Bowes Primary School, is delighted at being able to help meet the local need and give more children the opportunity of an outstanding education. Peter Travis, Headteacher at Broomfield School, is pleased to support Bowes to provide school places in the area.

Parents who are interested in a place at the school will need to apply through Enfield Schools Admission Service - www.enfield.gov.uk/admissions

Council set to renew support for Fairtrade

CABINET members have approved proposals for Enfield Council to re-register as a Fairtrade borough – and the final decision is set to be signed off at the next full council meeting.

After securing accreditation in September 2008 and establishing a steering group, the registration had lapsed.

The Fairtrade Foundation has granted the authority a period of grace for accreditation since 2012, but the council must now re-register before an August 31 deadline.

On Wednesday night last week, council leader Doug Taylor recommended that the item be referred to the meeting on July 16.

He said: "It was the council that initiated the Fairtrade request, so it is right that we send the report for noting to the council."

The only cost to the council is expected to come from promoting and publicising the authority's Fairtrade accreditation and arranging events for the annual Fairtrade fortnight, which is expected to take place next year between February 23 and March 8.

The authority also has to have a Fairtrade flagship employer – and it has selected Christian Action Housing, which will also be expected to supply Fairtrade products to its employees and guests.

Volunteering outcomes are 'worthwhile'

WHILE negative headlines about school governing bodies have been making the national news, the governors of children's education in Enfield have been free of controversy free – and on Monday they were recognised for their achievements at an annual awards ceremony.

He has spent more than two decades volunteering on the governing bodies of the Bowes Learning Alliance, which includes Bowes Primary School, in Bowes Road, and Chesterfield Primary School, in Enfield Lock, as well as Bowes Annexe in Edmonton.

He has also been chairman of the board of governors at Southgate School and a governor at De Bohun Primary School, in Southgate.

In the wake of the "Trojan Horse" controversy in Birmingham free schools, how governors are trained has come under intense scrutiny – and Mr Stubberfield believes that training is crucial to fulfilling the unpaid role well. "Governors can help schools become outstanding by being well trained and fully understanding the role of the body and being able to demonstrate how they are carrying out that role," he said.

He insists that volunteering does not take up endless hours and added: "The amount of time required will depend on your level of involvement. "Some roles require as little two or three evenings per term and maybe the occasional half-day in school, whereas others can require significant time commitments. The outcomes make it more than worthwhile."

Students were also lauded on Monday with two winning the Governor Award for Young People. Omolola Olufemi, from Enfield County School, and Jeyda Karabey, from Winchmore School, were both recognised for their outstanding contributions to their school community.

Cabinet member for education Ayfer Orhan added: "Public recognition is an important way of saying thank you and it is a great pleasure for me to thank people who give up their own time to ensure that our schools are managed responsibly."

Chickenshed founder

I CANNOT put into words the immense pride I felt when I sat in our Rayne Theatre for Chickenshed's graduation day. The theatre was packed with students and their enormously proud family and friends to see our talented graduates collect their coveted certificates. There were whoops of joy, and many tears, not just from the students, but from their teachers as they recalled the two-year journey they had travelled to reach graduation. Since 1995 we have extended our work to formally train people in the art of inclusive performance. We have 175 full-time students taking either a BTEC, foundation degree or a full BA (honours) degree in inclusive performance. We believe that everyone should be able to get access to further education and are as inclusive and flexible as possible with our entry criteria. Recognition of a student's past experiences and interest and ability to show commitment is taken into account. Believing in students and trusting and empowering them to realise and use their abilities reflects so positively on outcomes that we feel organisations that don't take in the range and profile of individuals are missing out. This approach really works. Our recent successes include 100 per cent retention rates and achievement. In a recent BTEC intake, 98 per cent passed with a full diploma and Ofsted gave us a rating of outstanding. We inspire people who have often been outstanding in their lives – sometimes for the wrong reasons. At Chickenshed everyone stands out for the right reasons. Come and find out for yourself. You can pop in and see us – even for a coffee – any time.

Share your views on bullying

THROUGHOUT 2014, BullyingUK is celebrating its 15th anniversary. We are conducting a comprehensive national bullying survey for parents, professionals and children to share their experiences of bullying and how it affects us all. BullyingUK, part of the charity Family Lives, recently saw calls relating to cyberbullying increase by 77 per cent over a 12-month period. In an online survey, we found that 43.5 per cent of respondents aged 11 to 16 had been bullied via social networks, while 51 per cent felt that blocking the bully from further contact or communication was a vital tool. Hospital staff deserve a medal

HAVING just had the privilege of spending the last five weeks of my mum's life at her bedside in Chase Farm Hospital, I can honestly say that the staff there deserve a medal for the work they do. My mum was treated with dignity and respect until the end. Despite the long hours worked, the staff were tireless in their efforts to ensure the comfort and safety of all their patients. They were kind to those who did not have visitors, sharing their own gifts of chocolates and sweets with them, and making time to keep them company. They laughed (and cried) with us and had genuine concern for our family at such a sad time. Thank you to all on Napier ward. I don't know what we would have done without you.

Homes not really 'affordable'

ALL the blocks of luxury flats going up around London are meant to include some affordable housing. But are those homes actually affordable for nurses, teachers and others on modest incomes? These shared ownership homes, where you buy a share and pay rent on the rest, are becoming increasingly expensive. The average income of households buying them has been rising every year and in a rapidly growing area of London you would be hard-pressed to buy an "affordable" two-bed flat on a combined income of less than £70,000. Shared ownership can't work miracles in a housing market that is completely out of control. I have called on the Mayor of London to review it and look at other options. An alternative I back is the Community Land Trust, where you take the land and homes out of the market completely, giving the communities the ability to keep homes permanently affordable. This won't solve all the housing problems we face, but it could be a better way to offer some people a chance to own their home.

New roles are party political

I FIND it incredible that just two weeks after a Labour councillor wrote to your paper laughing off a proposal to cut the number of councillors, we find that the first act of the new administration is to create three associate cabinet roles – at a cost of £22,824. To create a post for Enfield Southgate prospective parliamentary candidate [Bambos Charalambous], no doubt permitting him to regularly feature in the free council magazine and council press releases championing local causes, shows incredible arrogance. With job losses and an increase in council tax both a real threat, the new administration needs to stop playing at petty party politics and concentrate on governing.

Do you know Andreas Pittortou?

FOR many years my family and I dined in splendour at The Norfolk Restaurant, in London Road, Enfield – sadly no longer there. I would very much like to know if any of your readers are aware of how I can get in touch with Andreas Pittortou, who was the proprietor, to find out whether he has opened another restaurant locally or, indeed, if he is contactable.

Simple secret for a longer life

PLEASE allow me through your newspaper to thank all of those who played a part in making the Over 50s Forum Open Day at Edmonton Leisure Centre on June 23 such an informative and enjoyable event. The day, which was extremely well attended, was opened in the sports hall by various speakers including local Labour MP Andy Love. In his message of welcome in the programme, forum life president Monty Meth, right, wrote an interesting article. He concluded by saying: "We can all help ourselves to avoid that dreadful fall if we use the great facilities at our leisure centres, exercise, eat the right food and keep fit, for a longer life" I personally say "amen" to that.

We can all help to cut pollution

AFTER repeated calls stretching back years, Mayor of London Boris Johnson has finally announced his intention to set up an early warning system for when pollution episodes are expected to be either high or very high and carry significant health impacts. Such an alert system is potentially a welcome step for Londoners, especially the elderly, asthmatic and young, until now unaware of almost 30 high pollution episodes that took place in the capital over the past three of four years. I have urged Mr Johnson to include tailored warnings to any schools in pollution hotspots. But the real priority is to stop the pollution happening in the first place. We need actions to discourage the school run and other unnecessary car trips in order to protect children who are particularly vulnerable from suffering permanent lung damage.

Flying the flag for the armed forces

Honoured: Deputy Lieutenant Major John Rodwell handed out commendations to Able Cadet Rosie Colquhoun and Leading Cadet Jessica-Ann Edwards

THIS year's Armed Forces Day was especially poignant as the nation marks 100 years since the beginning of World War I and 70 years since the D-Day landings.

Military personnel, veterans and cadets were joined by residents on Sunday as they marched from the war memorial, in Chase Side, Enfield, to the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, where the Armed Forces Day flag was raised.

The annual event aims to raise public awareness of the contribution the forces make to the country.

Major John Rodwell, Deputy Lieutenant for Enfield, inspected the parade and presented two Enfield Sea Cadets with honours.

Doug Taylor, the leader of Enfield

On the march: The Armed Forces Day flag was raised outside Enfield Civic Centre

Council, said: "This year is a unique occasion to reflect on the sacrifices our armed forces made in the past – during the maelstrom of World War I and in the many other conflicts since then.

"Our armed forces do a difficult and often extremely unpleasant job with the utmost professionalism, and we owe them an enormous debt of gratitude for the freedoms and opportunities we take for granted."

Woman pedestrian injured in collision with police van

TRAFFIC was brought to a standstill around Enfield Town last week following a collision between a police van and a pedestrian.

The marked van was travelling eastbound in Southbury Road when it was involved in the collision with a woman in her early 20s shortly before 4pm on Wednesday.

Paramedics treated the woman for head injuries before she was taken to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London.

She was said to be in a stable condition.

The officer driving the van and a passenger, also a police officer, were uninjured and stopped at the scene.

A police spokesman said it was believed that the van had been responding to an emergency call.

The Metropolitan Police said the Directorate of Professional Standards had been informed.

Buses were diverted until Southbury Road was reopened just after 7pm.

Candidate charged over election offence

A MAN who had been chosen as a Conservative candidate in the local elections in Enfield in May was charged last week with making a false declaration in nomination papers against sections of the Representation of the People Act 1983.

Michael Jefferson Fadaka, 33, of Bedale Road, Enfield, who had been selected to stand in Enfield Lock ward, was suspended before the election after the Enfield North Conservative Association was told there was a problem with his application by Enfield Council officers.

However, it was too late to stop his name appearing on ballot papers. He is due to appear at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on July 8.

Under enemy fire

SIMON JACOBS

THINGS got a bit uncivil at Forty Hall on Saturday afternoon as Roundheads and Cavaliers clashed in a re-enactment of the English Civil War.

The grounds of the Jacobean mansion, in Forty Hill, Enfield, were turned into a campsite of the Red Regiment of the London Trained Bands and there were a series of drills, displays and audience participation before they fought with the enemy.

The display was orchestrated by Enfield's Sir Marmaduke Rawdon's Regiment of Foote, a family-based regiment who pride themselves over their fighting spirit and camaraderie.

Rohini Simbodyal, Enfield Council's cabinet member for culture, said: "This event provided a fascinating and lively insight into what the English Civil War was like for the soldiers who fought in it and gave people the chance to enjoy a really hands-on historical experience.

"This was the first time we had staged a full scale historical re-enactment in our borough and we hope it proved to be a big hit with residents."

Graduates take to the stage at Chickenshed

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

STUDENTS streamed across the stage of Chickenshed Theatre last week, picking up certificates that bookend years of toil on stage. They were handed the certificates by the theatre's long-term supporter Claire Skinner – star of BBC TV sitcom Outnumbered.

After the first year BTEC students had belted out a shamelessly feel-good medley of achievement anthems for the benefit of the packed theatre, the actress told the graduates that what they had learned with Chickenshed “should be taught in all drama schools”.

“I first came to Chickenshed 18 years ago and I was completely blown away by the commitment of the performances of every single actor on the stage,” she said. “The huge power of Chickenshed comes when everyone is on the stage, when everyone is involved and the actors enable the performances of others.”

Telling the gathering that the students would learn and explore so much in the course of their professional careers she added that one of the most important lessons theatre had taught her was that performances, at their most profound level, are about “the beating heart of the actor and the beating heart of the audience.”

Speaking after the ceremony, the actress explained her passion for the brand of inclusive theatre taught at Chickenshed, in Chase Side, Southgate: “When you see a performance here, it is about the group – not the individual – and that’s such an important lesson to learn.”

Susan Horsup, one of the students graduating from Chickenshed’s BA degree course, admitted she was a little daunted at the prospect of going out to seek her way in the world.

“I can’t believe I have got this far,” the 22-year-old from Essex told the Advertiser.

She did not come to the BA via the BTEC route and was not introduced to Chickenshed’s unique working style until she started on the programme. “I have learned so much,” she added. “With everything that Chickenshed has taught me I want to go and work with children – not necessarily teaching – but performing with and for them.”

The ceremony was interspersed with films and slide shows showing the graduating students in various performances and rehearsals. The graduation marks the halfway point of the theatre’s 40th anniversary celebrations.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Night hikers raise £15,000 for cancer support centre

THE streets were filled with flashing bunny ears on Friday night as more than 500 people walked 15 kilometres to raise money for cancer services.

The fourth annual Night Hike in aid of the Nightingale Cancer Support Centre saw residents, councillors and MPs step out on to the streets and raise more than £15,000 to support the free services provided by the charity, which is based in Lancaster Road, Enfield.

The hikers left the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, at 8pm and walked through Ponders End to Bush Hill Park, Winchmore Hill and Southgate before returning to Enfield Town. The last person crossed the finish line at 12.25am.

Lesa Barker, fundraising manager for the charity, said: "It was a wonderful event, it went smoothly and everyone seemed to have a really good time."

The money goes towards the charity's free services for cancer patients, including complementary therapies, transport to and from hospital appointments and befriending services.

Lesa added: "This event can not take place without the hundreds of volunteers. They were so upbeat, without them you couldn't run events like this."

The hike was supported by Bush Hill Park

Rotary Club, the Capel Players, Tesco and St Paul's Church, in Enfield Town.

For more information about the charity, visit www.nightingalesupport.org.uk

Call for final entries to Beautiful Enfield comp

By Davina Merchant

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THIS is the last call for all budding artists to take part in a summer art exhibition at the Dugdale Centre.

Artists have until 4pm on Saturday to submit their entries to the Beautiful Enfield competition, which will then see the winners exhibited at the arts, business and cultural centre in Enfield Town from Monday morning.

Winners, who must be living in the borough, will also receive a prize of art materials and equipment.

Jenny Ainsley, who previously held her own art exhibition at the centre in December, teamed up with Hayley Byfield, who is the gallery co-ordinator, to organise the competition and the pair will be judging the entries on Sunday.

Jenny said: "Enfield is beautiful and sometimes people do not recognise how beautiful it actually is.

"It is green and leafy and there is so much to be seen once you look closely."

Both women believe that art is important to the borough as it not only showcases new talent, but also represents different perspectives of the area through the visuals of the artist.

Entry forms can be picked up from the Dugdale, in London Road, or can be obtained by email from hayley.byfield@enfield.gov.uk

Artwork should embrace the theme of Beautiful Enfield and must be original pieces of work such as water art and textiles. Photographs will not be admitted.

The maximum dimension for pictures will be 16ins by 22ins and there is also limited space for sculptures and ceramics, which will be displayed in glass cases.

The exhibition will close on August 1.

The Dugdale Centre has public liability insurance, but individuals will need to provide their own insurance for individual artworks.

For more information, call 020 8379 8354.

DEMBELE IS EXCITED BY SPURS' PROSPECTS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

MOUSSA DEMBELE is optimistic that he will flourish at Tottenham Hotspur under the stewardship of new head coach Mauricio Pochettino.

Dembele, who is currently with Belgium at the World Cup, joined Spurs from Fulham in the summer of 2012 and performed well during his first year at the club.

However, last season saw him blighted by a succession of injury problems, while he also struggled to secure a regular place in the side once Tim Sherwood took charge.

But Dembele hopes that the change at the top will have a positive impact both for him as an individual and for the club as a whole.

"I have heard a lot of good stories about Pochettino so I hope it will be a good appointment," he said. "The style Southampton played under him was very impressive. Let's hope it is going to be the same at Tottenham as well."

"Of course it's good to have a change and a fresh start. We have a very good group of players, and if we have a very good manager as well, then we can do big things. I hope I can fit in well under the new manager, but we have to know what his plans are first."

Dembele is one of the three Spurs players – along with Jan Vertonghen and Nacer Chadli – who is part of a Belgian squad that was looking to reach the quarter-finals of the World Cup last night when they took on the United States of America.

France goalkeeper Hugo Lloris and Brazilian midfielder Paulinho have already seen their countries reach the last eight, but Nabil Bentaleb's dreams of glory with Algeria came to an end on Monday when they were beaten in extra time by Germany.

Meanwhile, striker Emmanuel Adebayor is equally confident that Spurs can look ahead to next season with genuine optimism.

Having been effectively frozen out during the first half of last season, Adebayor made a significant impact once Sherwood brought him into the side and he ended up as Tottenham's leading scorer with 14 league goals in what was largely a disappointing campaign for the side.

"Last season we had to dig deep," he said. "It was a strange season, where we started games poorly and went 1-0 down in a few seconds against teams like Manchester City, Liverpool and West Brom."

"There were a lot of incidents of that. We gave away a lot of goals, but I don't think that will happen again next year."

"A lot of the lads will have a season under their belts and now have more experience. We are improving as a team and starting to control games. Next season can only be better."

Feeling positive: Moussa Dembele is looking forward to working under new Spurs head coach Mauricio Pochettino

Sorry Skolars are crushed by Gateshead

THE London Skolars endured a day to forget on Saturday as they slumped to a humbling 66-6 defeat when they entertained Gateshead Thunder in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One.

Playing at their temporary home of the Queen Elizabeth Stadium in Donkey Lane, Enfield, the Skolars simply capitulated after failing to take advantage of a bright start – conceding 13 tries on their way to suffering their heaviest defeat of the season.

Tely Pelo was held up over the line as the hosts began the match in positive fashion, but they were unable to put any points on the board and Gateshead soon started to take control.

Sonny Esslemont began the rout and Paul Stamp added another try on ten minutes to put the visitors in charge.

The Skolars were then undone by a three-try burst in four minutes, with Joel Farrell, Jamie Rooney and Jason Payne all crossing the line to extend the visitors' lead to 26-0 after 21 minutes.

Rooney then had a try disallowed as the one-sided nature of the contest continued, but there was to be no denying the same player on 31 minutes and Michel Butterfield added Gateshead's seventh try just before the interval.

The hosts finally got on the scoreboard in the opening moments of the second half as Sam Druce sliced through the defence to grab a try which Courtney Davies converted.

But the visitors were soon back on the attack and Louis Sheriff evaded the defence with ease to get his name on the scoresheet before George Clark touched down under the posts.

Sheriff scored twice more to complete a second-half hat-trick, while Ricky Hough and Jordan Meads also crossed the line to pile on the misery for the Skolars. Rooney, Meads and Stamp converted seven of the tries between them.

The match saw 20-year-old half-back Danny Yates make his debut for the Skolars after he joined the club on loan from Halifax last week.

The London Skolars host York City Knights – again at the Queen Elizabeth Stadium – on Sunday (3pm).

Rain causes derby to be abandoned

A FANTASTIC century from Michael Philipson proved to be worthless as Hornsey's derby clash at home to North Middlesex in the top flight of the Middlesex County Cricket League was ultimately abandoned because of rain on Saturday.

The hosts made a dreadful start after being inserted by their struggling visitors, slumping to 12-3 with James Bull, Richard Wharton and Jack Goldberg all being dismissed.

But Philipson came to the rescue with a superb unbeaten 116 to enable Hornsey to rebuild the innings, sharing a stand of 93 for the third wicket with James Fleming (37) and then – following another mini-collapse – adding an unbroken 83 for the seventh wicket with Martin Tucker (35 not out) prior to the declaration at 206-6. Joel Hughes took 3-29.

North Middlesex slipped to 27-3 in reply, with Oliver Yew striking twice, but Connor Nurse (37 not out) and Tom Nicoll (19 not out) guided them to 77-3 before play came to a halt after 19 overs – one short of the total required to constitute a match.

Meanwhile, North London and Highgate both claimed losing draws from rain-shortened clashes in Division Three.

Hosting leaders Acton, Highgate did well to dismiss their visitors for 157 – with Edward Foster (3-29) proving to be the most successful bowler.

However, the hosts struggled in reply, with Christopher Arul (30) and Craig Gourlay (15 not out) the only men to reach double figures as they limped to 90-7.

North London also endured a difficult day with the bat as they just managed to stave off defeat from their trip to Kenton – closing on 81-9 after the hosts had amassed 205-7 batting first.

Hornsey go to Richmond on Saturday, while North Middlesex entertain Ealing, Highgate visit MTSSC and North London host Ickenham.

Sowing the seeds at Willows Farm for some a-maize-ing adventures

TWO-YEAR-OLD Alina Maisie is seen here busy planting the seeds of summer at Willows Farm. She was joined by farmers Anna and Andrew, from the attraction in London Colney, as she planted the seeds for the A-maize-ing Maze. The maze is expected to shoot up across acres of land in time for the Summer Spectacular event at Willows, beginning on July 19. Farmer Andrew said: "Our A-maize-ing Maze is a firm family favourite, but this year we wanted to do something extra special. "Parents often describe their children as 'shooting up', so we wanted to plot our maize maze's growth against little Alina Maisie's."

Come mid-July, the maze is expected to be up to 6ft tall. Between July 19 and August 31, visitors can enjoy goat racing, or take part in fun sports day activities including space hopper races. There will also be the usual family favourites like Woolly's Workout Agility Play Trail, Tristan the Runaway Tractor and indoor play barn. For more information and tickets visit www.willowsactivityfarm.com or call 0870 129 9718.

Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health NHS Trust

Opportunity to comment on planning application for proposed redevelopment of St Ann's Hospital in Tottenham

Following several years of development, including extensive input from patients, partners and local people, Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental health NHS Trust, which owns the St Ann's Hospital site in Tottenham, has now submitted a formal planning application to Haringey Council for the redevelopment of the site. The proposals involve a series of improvements to the health facilities, which will occupy just over one third of the site, along with a residential development to create new family houses and flats for local people. These will include both private and affordable homes. St Ann's will not close, all the current health services will remain, but be provided in improved facilities, including a new, purpose-built, mental health inpatient building.

The planning application reflects the comments made by local stakeholders over the last two years. The plans preserve many of the interesting older buildings on the site and retain and enhance the current green open landscapes. The proposed new homes will be predominantly family housing with gardens and the heights of the proposed flats have been reduced to a maximum of five stories. The whole redevelopment is designed to complement the surrounding residential areas.

The public can view and comment on the planning application on Haringey Council's website at www.haringey.gov.uk/planning. It is expected that a decision on the planning application will be taken by Haringey Council in the autumn. Comments can be submitted anytime up to the Planning Committee meeting considering the application, however, views are encouraged as soon as possible, so that they can be fully considered.

In order to allow the public to find out more about the planning application, ask questions and give their views, a Development Management Forum meeting has been arranged on Wednesday 16 July 2014 at 7.00pm at Chestnuts Community Centre, 280 St Ann's Road, London N15 5BN (opposite St Ann's Hospital).

Fun summer activities for the family

ADD a splash of colour to your life, and help raise money for charity at the same time, by taking part in Noah's Ark's first-ever rainbow run. The 5km event, in aid of the children's hospice, takes place on Sunday, July 20, at Allianz Park, in Hendon. It starts at 11am and is suitable for anyone aged 12 and over.

Runners will start in white before getting doused with coloured powder paint as they pass the Rainbow Squad en route. There will also be a mini-run for kids aged seven and under, as well as music. Money raised will go to the Barnet-based charity, which provides support and services to life-limited and life-threatened children and their families in north London. Entry costs £15 for the main event and £6 for the under-sevens, while you can also join in by paying £5 to be part of the Rainbow Squad. To register call 020 8449 8877 or email gmcclaughlin@noahsarkschospice.org.uk

Win performing arts tuition

The teenager was the niece of 360's Arts director, award-winning actress Simone Lahbib. There is an audition fee of £30, which will go to Simone's charity (www.elidhbrown.co.uk). The winner of the scholarship will get a year's free tuition, while all other entrants will get discounted fees on their first term if they sign up on audition day. We have teamed up with 360 Arts to offer one reader the chance to win six weeks' free tuition – totalling a maximum of £162. To be in with a chance of winning, just answer the following question: Who are the two directors of 360 Arts? The answer can be found online at www.360arts.co.uk or www.facebook.com/360ArtsLondon. Send your answer, along with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to 360 Arts, Enfield Advertiser and Barnet Press competition, 18 Ballantrae House, Lyndale, Crickwood, London, NW2 2PB or email cpbrophy@hotmail.co.uk. Entries close at noon on Sunday, August 31, with winners notified a week later. Usual North London & Herts Newspapers competition rules apply. For more information about the school and to apply for the scholarship, visit www.360arts.co.uk or email admin@360arts.co.uk 60 ARTS is a performing arts school offering classes for children of all ages. It is based at The Bridge Theatre Company, in Kingsway, North Finchley, with classes taking place between 10am and 2pm on Sundays. There are also sessions for adults. The school offers dancing, acting and singing classes, whether your child is a rising star or just needs to build confidence, improve their communication skills and make new friends. Since 360 Arts opened at the end of last year, its students have already performed many times, including at the Barnet Street Festival and Finchley Christmas lights switch-on. More recently, it put a group together in three days for CBBC Sport Relief Does Glee, through to reality shows The Voice, The X Factor, Got To Dance and Britain's Got Talent. And it has opened the books for its annual scholarship award, The Elidh Brown Memorial Fund. It was set up in memory of Elidh Brown, who died nine days before her 16th birthday from cancer.

GET a real taste for the outdoors on a free wildlife and foraging walk. The event is organised by Manor House PACT – which stands for prepare, adapt, connect, thrive – and takes place from 2pm to 4pm on Sunday, July 13. It is part of a series of free, family walks which will focus on foraging summer berries and plants that grow around the east and west reservoirs in Manor House. Walkers should meet outside Castle Climbing Centre, in Green Lanes, with the walk then heading along the New River path. Anyone wishing to take part should wear suitable footwear, and organisers say the path is not suitable for wheelchairs or bikes. For a full list of wildlife and foraging walks, which will take place on the second Sunday of every month, visit www.manorhousepact.org.uk/

MAKE it a knight to remember and try on some armour at a special event allowing people to get hands on with history. Robert the Bruce Day: Knights in Armour, takes place at Bruce Castle, in Tottenham, from 1pm to 4.30pm on Sunday, July 13. It marks the 740th anniversary of Robert the Bruce's birth and 700 years since the Battle of Bannockburn. As well as watching demonstrations by knights, visitors can try on arms, armour, clothing and equipment from the time of Robert the Bruce, from the medieval king of Scotland. Bruce Castle Museum is in Lordship Lane, Tottenham.

FOR any fans of Lewis Carroll's Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, look no further, as we have a double-whammy for you: The first takes place at Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield, this Saturday, July 5, where there will be a special Alice's Day. Kids will have a chance to jump down the rabbit hole at this fabulously fantastical family event, as well as play giant chess, croquet, and enjoy storytelling. Even better – it's totally free. The event takes place from 1pm to 3pm and people are encouraged to bring a picnic and come in fancy dress. For more details, visit www.fortyhallstate.co.uk. Then, perfect for any aspiring young foodies, in August the Kids' Kitchen will be staging three Alice in Wonderland teas. Children can join in Alice to bake some toast-cookies, Queen of Hearts tarts – as well as making some small sandwiches and their own "drink me" potion. The fun will take place from 2.30pm to 5.30pm on Tuesday, August 5, 19 and 26, and is suitable for children aged five and above. Sessions cost £35 including all ingredients, utensils, use of an apron and tuition, and each child will take home a recipe sheet and a special certificate for all the new foods they have tried. Classes are held in Whetstone. For more information and to book call Nicole on 01976 268 520 or email nicole@thehiddenskitchen.net. And for a full list of all classes, which also include Charlie and The Chocolate Factory and Mamma Mia-themed fun, as well as some Mila-themed fun for pre-school youngsters, visit www.thehiddenskitchen.net

HALLOWEEN may be several months away, but that doesn't stop things going bump in the night. Now you can learn about Things That Go Bump in High Barnet, as professional guide Paul Baker takes you on a ghoulish and ghostly walk through High Barnet and Monken Hadley this Sunday, July 6. You can see the grave of pirate Walter Walmsley in Monken Hadley Churchyard, and hear stories of witchcraft and grisly executions. The walk is suitable for both adults and children who like having a bit of a scare. It will start from High Barnet Tube station at 7.30pm and costs £8 per person, with accompanied under-12s paying £4. Walkers should bring a torch if possible. It is one of a series of walks run by Mr Baker across the borough, including The Battle of Barnet, Dickens in Barnet and in the Footsteps of the Famous in High Barnet. For more information call 020 8440 6805 or 07506 761 294, or email pbaker54@hotmail.co.uk

THERE will be plenty of live music as a Tottenham primary school stages its summer festival next month. Chestnuts Primary School, in Black Boy Lane, is hosting the event from 3pm to 8.30pm on Saturday. Among the acts playing are Blue Heat 500. The Only Band in the Village, Mondegreen Folk and Samsam Bubbles. There will be arts and crafts, a graffiti wall and a cake competition, as well as a bar, barbecue and an ice cream van. Advance tickets cost £2 from the school, or £3 on day, with children going free.

MEMBERS of Edmonton Cycle Club believe they bring a bit more of a social aspect to their exercise regime than most.

The group meets three or four times a month at various locations across the borough before heading off for a ride anywhere from 15 to 40 miles in length. The club, which was formed in the mid-1990s, has a broad range of participants, runs a monthly bike maintenance workshop and regularly stops for a Sunday lunch on their routes. Paul LaFosse, one of the founding members of the club, said: "The rides are suitable for most bikes, road, mountain and hybrid. Give the boot to getting cold and wet

ALTHOUGH we've been enjoying the summer sun recently, when the clouds loom heavy, and the nights draw in, going out for a run around a park may not seem as appealing. Get into the swing of golf

TS definitely the right time of year to get active outdoors, but if it's been a while, how about warming up for any new exercise regime with a round of golf?

Enfield Council is offering a series of free and discounted sessions on the greens of Whitewebbs Park Golf Club, to mark the beginning of the Open Championship at Hoylake on July 16. Between July 9 and July 16 a round on the 18-hole course in Clay Hill, Enfield, will cost a maximum of £10, with rounds after 6pm just £6.50.

There will be a free coaching session with two Professional Golf Association members to help players improve their game, including their swing, short game, putting, driving, bunker play and course management. Courses are free but need to be booked in advance by calling 020 8364 4454.

There are a series of competitions during the week, including a chance to win a car if you can score a hole in one at the 14th hole, during any paid-for full round on July 12 between 9am and 4pm. You can also compete against a professional on the same hole on July 9 and 11, and anyone who can hit their tee shot closer to the pin between 11am and 5pm will receive a sleeve of golf balls.

There is also a deal for golfers wanting to sign up as members, gaining unlimited access to the course until March 31, 2016. They will pay only £850, getting four months free – thereby saving £200.

The council is also trying to develop a youth academy and will be holding a range of hourly sessions every Saturday and Sunday starting from just £4. Council leader Doug Taylor said: "Whitewebbs is a great course that challenges all abilities and the open week is a great time to come along, experience the special offers that are available and enjoy a round in a fantastic setting. "We're very proud of our golf course and keen for as many people to use it, regardless of their level of ability."

World Cup reaches the business end

WHILE people may have been blubbing in Barnet and sobbing in Southgate at England's early exit from the World Cup, there has been plenty to get your teeth into during the tournament so far – especially if you are Luis Suarez.

But while the Uruguayan striker may now be banned from all soccer worldwide for the next four months for trying to take a chunk out of Italian defender Giorgio Chiellini's shoulder, football fans have plenty still to enjoy between now and 9pm on July 13, when the final takes place at the National Stadium, in Brasilia.

There have been plenty of shocks already – what odds would you have got on Chile, Costa Rica, Uruguay, USA and Algeria qualifying for the last 16, while Spain, England, Italy, Portugal and Russia for the first time in their history?

While players such as Lionel Messi (Argentina), Arjen Robben (Netherlands) and Neymar (Brazil) have shone as expected, there have been a number of surprise packages too.

What odds on Mexican keeper Guillermo Ochoa turning up in the Premier League next season? Especially as he is currently without a club.

Equally young Dutch left-back Daley Blind, son of former Netherlands international Danny Blind, who is currently playing with Ajax Amsterdam.

While a European team has never won a World Cup in Latin and South America, there are some very real contenders. The Netherlands may not have quite hit the imperious form they reached in the group stages as they claimed a late 2-1 win over Mexico, but they will be confident of progressing to the last four, as they face Costa Rica in the last eight. Equally, Germany are looking strong with Thomas Muller a constant danger up front.

However, with Brazil and Colombia – who have hitman James Rodriguez in the form of his life – already through to the last eight, and Argentina playing Switzerland as we went to press, the South American challenge looks strong.

If you are still mourning England's dismal showing in the group stages, don't worry, Roy Hodgson's men soon have a chance to make amends – qualifying for the 2016 European Championships in France begins in the second week of September.
